Recently, Dimitri de Vreeze, global co-chief executive officer of DSM - Firmenich, said in an interview with the Dutch media that from the end of next year, it hopes to prove that the merger with Firmenich is right through growing sales. Vreeze also said DSM has been reducing its reliance on vitamin products, especially those with lower profit margins. At present, consumer demand is recovering, but more slowly than expected, mainly due to the uncertainty in the Chinese market, and DSM is in the process of slashing costs.
